MRS GORDON REARDON

The courage and tenacity of a girl who has the will to fight for her life, after having been almost completely burned in an accident which took the lives of her husband and friends, is something to admire.

The services of the Wilmington Lions, and of Avco in bringing the girl back to New England, is worthy of emulation.

The wonderful attitude of the people of Chambersburg Pennsylvania, for their open-hearted assistance to Midge and the Reardon family, is something that should be inscribed in letters of gold.

But the real story, in all this, is that of Mrs Gordon Reardon, the mother of Midge Wescott.

A lady of calm demeanor, she has had more than her share of troubles in this life, and has borne them all with a quiet smile.

One of her daughters, - a sister of Midge, is a girl who was afflicted with polio. Her husband lost his fingers in an industrial accident, some years ago. Then there was the accident to Midge.

Midge was cared for - nearly every minute of the past six and one half months, by Mrs Reardon.

That lady is an unsung heroine of Wilmington.

TIME TO TURN OFF THAT TV SET!

On the front page of this week's Town Crier, and on last week's too, the reader can find testimony to the fact that the Devil finds Work for Idle Hands.

A dog was shot. Two valuable hives of bees were destroyed. Both were wanton acts, the result of youngsters not getting proper guidance.

Perhaps there are too many parents in front of their TV sets, worrying about the doings of the world, or some TV villain. Perhaps, too, the youngsters have been inspired by some of the programs.

Wilmington has organizations to keep the young people not only busy, but in productive lines as well. Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Campfire Girls, Church groups - and the many activities of the Recreation League.

But they all need the help of responsible adults.

At this time of the year two activities are getting started - the Pony League and Little League.

They too can use assistance, from men who must get up the courage to push themselves away from their TV sets.

Call up Eddie Sullivan on Grove Avenue, or Joe Paglia on Nichols Street, and offer your services if you want Little League baseball to help the youngsters, or, if you prefer, Roland Wood, on Lockwood Road, if your preference lies with the Pony League. All of them can use volunteer helpers!

TOWN NOTES

Striker

Joe Baker of Dorothy Avenue is the kind of guy who will spend all his spare time in summers coaching a Little League team - but give him time to bowl in the winter!

In the winter time he bowls in Pineridge Cleaners team of the N. Wilmington Merchants League, and as at least a few people know there are people in that team who would rather bowl than eat.

A week ago, bowling up at Pleasure Lanes in North Reading, Joe made 10 strikes (knocked down all the pins with the first ball) in succession.

Everyone in the place stopped their bowling to watch Joe, as he got ready for his 11th strike - and that's possibly the reason why he didn't do any better than a spare (one pin left standing).

But he bowled 286 points out of a possible 300, and that, Mister, is good bowling!

The Good Angel

John Elliott is a gentleman who lives on one of the side streets off Marion Street, little noticed in the affairs of Wilmington.

A retired Pullman Porter, he is the epitome of kindly actions, the thoughtful individual who is always thinking of others.

During the six and one half months that Mrs Reardon was in Chambersburg, Pennsylvania, she received a copy of the Town Crier every week - thoughtfully mailed to her by Mr. Elliott.

Copper Wire

One of the little unsung stories of Wilmington is the copper wire tale of the Wildcat Railroad, that stretch of the B&M between Wilmington and N. Wilmington, across Glen Road and Salem Street.

It has a habit of disappearing every time the price of copper gets over 33 cents a pound. We have always imagined that a truck with a power reel was used, reeling up the wire from Salem Street, while five men climbed poles between the truck and Glen Road, and released the wire.

Twice, if our memory serves us correctly, the wire between these two streets has disappeared, in the past ten years.

We noted in the Woburn Times last week that some second hand copper had been stolen in that city. The price of second hand copper is up, again.

So - we are wondering if the fact that there are new homes on Salem Street, near the Wildcat crossing, is going to make any difference this time.

Cedar Pond

Up in North Wilmington, off the Shady Lane area, is a pond which, from 1635 or thereabouts has been known as Cedar Pond.

It was once a backwash from Lubbers Brook, after the glacial ages, but peat filled in around the pond, and it became separated from the brook many hundreds of years ago.

Then the white man came, and eventually a street named Cedar Crest Avenue was the site of new homes - many of which found that there was water in the area - and

Clair Buckley Dwyer, of Woburn, actively connected with many Democratic organization, and a worker on district and state levels, has announced her candidacy for the Democratic State Commee Woman form the 7th Middlesex District, Billerica, Burlington, Lexington, Stoneham, Tewksbury, Wakefield and Woburn.

Mrs Dwyer, in announcing her candidacy said 'I am, and always have been a firm believer of qualifications for office, not the theoretical or high sounding type, but of the nature of one who served in the ranks, who has mingled with and worked with the rank and file, shoulder to shoulder, in all elections. Experience is a great teacher, and contact with the fellow Democratic worker is a great flavorer. I believe that I have attained those fundamentals to encloak me with the proper kind of experience necessary for sitting in the councils of our party on a state level'

'My indoctrination into Democratic politics came before I was a voter., before I was old enough to vote. I served as a precinct worker for candidates at the polls in Somerville and Medford. I am a past member of DAV Aux. Chapter 27 of which my husband James is Past Commander. I am currently an Executive Committee member of the Middlesex County Young Democratic Council, a past secretary and treasurer of the Young Democrats of Greater Woburn, and a member of the Woburn Democratic City Committee. I am also a member of the Democratic Womens Club Federation. THAT'S WHO!

With them is Mrs Gordon Reardon, Midge's mother. The flowers waiting for Midge were from the Lions Club.

Marjory 'Midge' Reardon Wescott is home - as close to home as she will be for a long long time.

She arrived at the New England Sanitorium and Hospital, in Stoneham about 7:15 Sunday night, after a ten hour trip from Chambersburg Pennsylvania, in the Avco ambulance, piloted by Wilmington Lions Alan Fenton and Walter Parsons, and cared for by Marilyn Turner RN, nurse-instructor at the New England San.

The once vibrant Midge was but a shadow of her former self, for she was horribly burned in the airplane accident which took the life of her husband and her two friends, last September, but she was still cheerful - happy to be home, and possessed of a will to live.

It will be a long time before she will be able to leave the New England San, but Midge is home - and that is, in itself, a triumph.

WILMINGTON LIONS REPORT ON TRIP TO CHAMBERSBURG

Wally Parsons and Alan Fenton, the two Wilmington Lions who made the trip to Chambersburg Pennsylvania, in the Avco ambulance, and back again, have related their impressions of the trip to the Town Crier.

Chambersburg, according to the two Lions, is a wonderful city of 22,000 which had extended its heart to Midge, and her parents, and exhibited the same warm hospitality to the two visiting Lions.

The tax rate of the city amazed the two men. The King Lion, they report, lived in a seven room brick home, and paid only $168 a year in taxes, this in a city with a fine hospital, and a high school to which one hundred busloads of children arrived daily.

The streets were clean 'so clean you could eat off them' said Wally.

It had a very small police department - only two men and a sergeant were on duty, for a city of 22,000. The police, the Lions said, went 'all-out' for their visitors, and when they left, next morning the Police had called the AAA for a complete set of directions for their return trip. Nothing was too good for the men who were visiting that city on an errand of mercy!

The Avco ambulance was a wonderful vehicle - a Pontiac, it was very comfortable, and didn't take a single quart of oil, on the entire trip - but, the two men ruefully said, it just couldn't seem to pass a gas station - like a horse smelling oats!

In New Jersey, on the way home, the Sunday traffic on the Garden Highway was such that the driving was 'stop-and-go'. Mrs Wescott, who will still have to undergo many more skin grafts on her body, was being affected by the stopping, the nurse told the two drivers.

It is forbidden to use a siren on the Garden Highway, but Wally Parsons called the State Police on the Avco radio, and after explaining the situation was told by the State Police to 'go ahead - blow that siren - go on through!' - which they then did.

Mrs Reardon, mother of Midge, who had spent six and one half months in Chambersburg with her daughter, rode by her all the way home.

LETTER

March 30, 1964

Dear Sir:

Re: Your editorial on the library. The $55 million asked for libraries by President Johnson last Friday was in his original budget, presented a few months ago. If the money is voted it will be available July 1.

$30,000 spent on an old building is a waste, and anyway it couldn't be done decently that cheaply. A neighboring town spent $60,000 on an old building for a library; it still is not finished. Fortunately for the taxpayers, it was gift money that was being used.

The book 'Practical Administration of Public Libraries', by Wheeler and Goldhor, published in 1962 is in the Wilmington Library. Although the whole book is excellent reading for people wishing to know about libraries, chapter 33 is especially pertinent to building problems. Reading of the chapter will inform the TM and Selectmen that a civic center is not always the best place to locate a library. This service should be placed where pedestrian and shopping traffic is the heaviest.

Since we have no 'downtown' area (as do Reading and Andover) this presents a problem as to where a library would be most beneficial to the people. Also this chapter suggests not joining another municipal service in any way. (Wilmington's experience with a joint Fire and Police Station was not a happy one!)

Besides the many professional and practical reasons (not mentioned in this letter) for not housing a library with a town hall, I wonder if the townspeople who voted so firmly against a new town hall might not resent having to vote for it in order to get the library they want! Since all meetings and discussions seem to indicate the people feel the library comes first, let us do that job first - and make it a good job!

Is the offer by the Middlesex County Bank of free land for a library still good?

Sincerely
Evelyn M Norton

TOWN ENGINEER REPORTS ON DE CAROLIS LAND

Town Engineer Alphonse Savignac, Tuesday night, made a report (verbal) to the Planning Board with reference to the drainage and other problems on land behind the Woburn Street school, now building, which land has been proposed for a real estate development.

Savignac told the Board that a drop of 26 feet existed from the high point in the center of the land to the end near the present end of Marcia Road, and that a smaller drop existed in the other direction (north) towards High Street.

It would not be feasible, Savignac told the board, to propose any drainage eastward, towards Woburn Street. There was, he said, a 'pocket' to the eastward which was located near Marcia Road, and which would have to be drained to the westward, across the lots and under the proposed extension of Marcia Road, into an existing ditch.

Savignac also stated that before the Board of Health could examine the individual lots there would have to be a temporary drainage system. He proposed a ditch (open) along the development, leading down to the present end of Marcia Road. The ditch would presumably be 'piped' and filled if the tests were to prove satisfactory.

Concerning the end of Carolyn Road, Savignac said that such water as came from the new development would be small enough to be handled by the present drainage system on Carolyn Road.

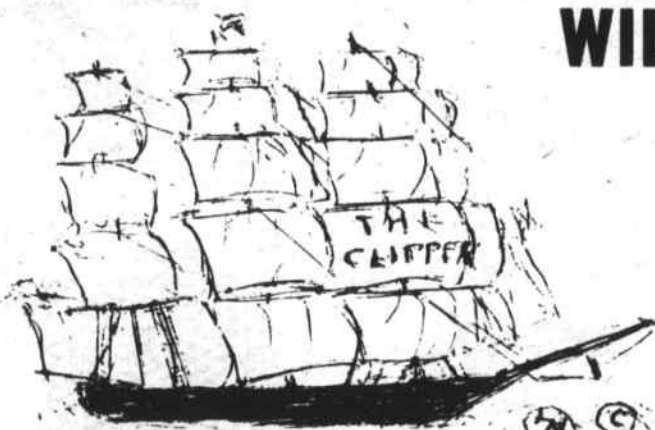

The proposal to drain a large ditch system, and the 'pocket' which lies to the east of the proposed development, near the Marcia Road end into a swamp lying to the westward raised a number of questions on the part of Planning Board members, and Mr. Savignac was informally advised to tell the developer, Mr. De Carolis of Tewksbury that it might be advisable to ask for an 'Extension of Time' before the expiration date, for it may result that the Planning Board may turn down the proposal as things now stand.

specially in cellars.

There was much complaint. In the past week the town has dug a ditch.Cedar Pond is again, after many years, flowing into Lubbers Brook, and perhaps - perhaps, there will be no water in the cellars of the people on Cedar Crest Avenue, next spring.

Clean Job

The kudo for the best remark of the week, by an official of Wilmington, goes to John Hartnett, of the School Committee.Last night, while listening to the correspondence being read, a letter written by Danny Burbine of the JCs expressed thanks to the Wilmington schools, for some assistance in the soap collection by the Wilmington JCs, for hospitals in Hong Kong.The letter went on to say that the Wilmington chapter collected more soap than any other town in the state.

'Clean Job!' said John.

He'll find Out

A Leominster man, currently in New York on a business trip, is going to have to make a trip to Wilmington, when he returns to Boston, sometime at the end of this week.It is an unexpected trip that he will be making.He parked his car at the East Boston airport Monday night, and flew off into space, secure in the knowledge that his car would be awaiting him on his return.But somebody borrowed the car, and that somebody didn't turn down his high-beam, at 9:30 pm Monday while meeting a car on Burlington Avenue.The driver of the other car was one of the Wilmington gendarmes, Charlie Dolan. Dolan went after the car, which turned up Boutwell St. and then up Taft Road, where the driver jammed on the brakes and jumped out, heading for the woods and the old quarry.Dolan called in Sgt Shepard and Officer Palmer, but they couldn't find the fellow.So they took the car to one of the local garages. All the Leominster man has to do is to come out to Wilmington and retrieve it.
We bet he'll be happy!

It always Happens

Two high schoolers will have good reason to remember the High School Science Fair, this year - viz
Alain Gruber and Elise WollerYoung Gruber, who won fourth prize, had worked long and hard on an exhibit on water turbines.
An electric motor pumped water up in to a tank, where it descended via a tube to a miniature turbine on water wheel.You guessed it. The electric motor conked out, just before the judges arrived, and Gruber was left not only speechless, but water-less.But the judges were properly impressed, anyway.Elise had a different type of tragedy.Her exhibit was in the field of ceramics, and as she was trotting out to the family car, after all was over, she dropped a gallon of soft goopy clay.It spilled all over the parking lot, much to the distress of the young lady, who, it seems, likes things to be neat as a pin.

A DIFFERENT KIND OF SEDER

The Seder is an Hebrew Religious meal which dates back to the time of the Exodus from Egypt, and which is celebrated annually by Jews the world over, at the time of the Passover.

While it is a ceremonial meal, and is to remind the Jews of the afflictions of their ancestors in their faith, it is also to be described as a gay festive meal, quite unlike anything in most other faiths where solemnity is the rule.

Last Sunday evening the people of the Wilmington Tewksbury Community Center, on Salem Street celebrated a Seder, and had as their guests twenty five young people from the Congregational Church of Tewksbury.

It was for the young people of the Congregational faith a revelation, but even then it wasn't quite a Seder, mainly because the Rabbi was being thoughtful of his guests, and took time to explain the various meanings - which most of the Jews present knew, and in which they were interested, but not with long explanations.

The Seder is eaten at rest - a man is allowed, in fact it is good manners, to put one's elbows on the table, to recline in a chair if able to - to take things easy. The Seder is a celebration of the passing of the afflictions of the race.

There are various things which must be eaten - bitter herbs to remind the congregation of the wandering through the Wilderness, and hard boiled eggs have their part in the dinner, as well as Matzoth, of course, - the unleavened bread which was baked on the hot rocks using the sun's rays for heat.

After the ceremonial part of the meal, which is rather scanty in amount, there is a real dinner, strictly Kosher, of course, for everyone to enjoy.

FOUR GLASSES OF WINE are consumed by each Jew, if he completes the Seder. Here the Rabbi is reading a prayer, while holding the first glass.

HATS ARE WORN: By all Jews at services. This gentleman is reading the prayer book, while his Rabbi reads.

ONIONS, CUT FRESH are a part of the Bitter Herbs which are eaten and Robin's face shows her reaction

YOUTH OF CHURCHES TO UNITE IN FOOD DRIVE

Young people of the Protestant and Catholic faiths, in Wilmington are uniting, with the blessings of their clergy, this weekend, in a drive to gather non-perishable food supplies, to be sent to Williams-town, North Carolina, for distribution to needy families, both white and colored.

The CYO of St Thomas, the Methodist Youth Fellowship, the Pilgrim Fellowship of the Congregational Church, and the Baptist Youth Fellowship have combined into one organization for the purpose of the drive.

A dance for the young people is to be held in Villanova Hall, tomorrow evening, with the price of admission either $1 or five cans of food.

Sunday afternoon, each of the groups, working through their own church, will be making collections throughout Wilmington, of canned goods. The collections are to start at 1:30 pm.

After the collections have been completed the foodstuffs will be assembled into one shipment, and sent to North Carolina.

The movement was started by Mr Carl Johnson of the Congregational Church, a student at the Andover Newton Theological Seminary, and has the support and backing of clergmen of all the respective churches taking part.

The funeral was held from the W S Cavanaugh & Son Funeral Home 374 Main Street, on Monday March 30th at 8:15 am, followed by a High Mass of Requiem at St. Thomas Church at 9 am which was celebrated by the Rev. Francis Mackin. Rev. Paul Berube was seated in the sanctuary, and a delegation from St. Thomas Sodality was also present.

Burial followed in the family lot in Wildwood Cemetery, with the Rev. Father Mackin offering the committal prayers.
